Also available in new translations by Lawrence Ellsworth :

THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK: A Sequel to The Three Musketeers

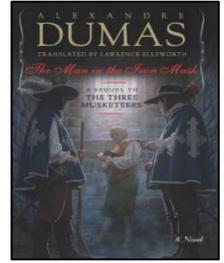

By Alexandre Dumas; newly translated by Lawrence Ellsworth

★Publishers Weekly (starred): "Ellsworth's translation captures a complete narrative."

Washington Post: "Fresh as ever in Ellsworth's compulsively readable translation."

Newly translated by Lawrence Ellsworth, the epic final adventure of swashbuckling heroes D'Artagnan, Athos, Porthos, and Aramis takes them from the glittering royal palace of Louis XIV to the dreaded dungeons of the Bastille. Dumas (1802–1870) was one of the most famous French writers of the 19th century; in just two years from 1844 to 1845, he published two enormous books, The Count of Monte Cristo and The Three Musketeers which have sold tens of millions of copies worldwide.

THE CURIOUS CALLING OF LEONARD BUSH

By Susan Gregg Gilmore

Lee Smith, The Last Girls and Silver Alert: "A big, generous novel."

A brave and subtly disturbing affirmation of faith in league with A Prayer for Owen Meany and Fried Green Tomatoes. When twelve-year-old Leonard Bush loses his leg in a freak accident, he decides to give his leg a proper burial in the hilltop cemetery of his East Tennessee town. This sets off a chain of miraculous and catastrophic events—upending the lives of Leonard's rigidly God-fearing mother, June; his deeply conflicted father, Emmett; and his best friend, Azalea, and her mother, Rose, who is also the town prostitute. While the local Baptist minister passes judgment on events and promises dire consequences, the people of this small community on the banks of Big Sugar move together toward awakening. Gilmore is the author of Finding Salvation at the Dairy Queen (Shaye Areheart Books) and The Funeral Dress (Crown), and daughter of a revival preacher's son, raised on the land and streams that populate this winsome novel.

BEHIND THE WATERLINE

By Konna Walker LeMalle

Deesha Philyaw, The Secret Lives of Church Ladies: "Catastrophes collide in this deeply moving page-turner."

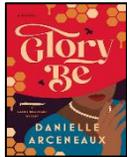

LeMalle's breathtaking debut takes readers to the home of a teenager and his grandmother in a New Orleans neighborhood on the eve of Katrina, where there are few resources and little warning of what is about to happen, in this novel that mixes magical realism with reality. LeMalle's Work has appeared in table//FEAST, The Southern Quarterly, The First Line, and The Bayou Review. She earned her MFA at Houston Christian University where she now teaches.

GLORY DAZE: A Glory Broussard Mystery

(English language rights only)

By Danielle Arceneaux

★Publishers Weekly: "A delightful debut."

New York Times: "Glory is a character for the ages."

When she's not working a mystery, Glory Broussard is a coffee shop bookie and devout Church lady. In Arceneaux's second book, Glory becomes enmeshed in the mystery of her ex-husband's death . . . with an unlikely ally at her side. Glory's search for the murderer takes her deep inside the seedy world of Louisiana casinos and racetracks, from their high roller VIP rooms with chatty dealers to stables filled with thoroughbred horses and shady dealings. Walloped with one revelation after another, Glory's no-nonsense attitude and strength are tested like never before.

WHAT SHE'S HIDING

By Art Bell

For readers of Harlan Coben and Laura Dave, a gripping modern-day noir thriller featuring a hotshot lawyer unexpectedly drawn into a web of violence and intrigue by the ex-wife he hasn't spoken to since their bitter divorce. Despite his still-smoldering desire for her, Henry is wary... but soon sucked into the chase for a missing engagement ring diamond. The ring is the MacGuffin that leads him on a harrowing journey through the glittering heights and shadowy corners of New York City, trying to stay one step ahead of the Russian mob while uncovering the secrets of Leslie's past. Bell is former president of CourtTV.

GALWAY'S EDGE

(English language rights only)

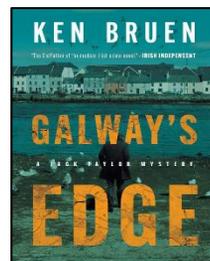

By Ken Bruen

The Irish Times: "The Godfather of the modern Irish crime novel"

New York Times Book Review: "Nobody writes like Bruen – an ear for lilting Irish prose and the kind of gallows humor heard only at the foot of the gallows."

For readers of Ian Rankin, Adrian McKinty, or Alan Parks: a secretive vigilante group called Edge cleanses Galway of its worst criminals. But when someone starts picking off Edge members, private detective Jack Taylor steps in to investigate. The iconic Jack Taylor detective series, depicted on TV by Iain Glenn, has a devoted following thanks to Bruen's idiosyncratic writing style -often compared to concrete poetry or the novels of David Peace.

THE MAN WHO SWORE HE'D NEVER GO HOME

By David Handler

Kirkus: "Always good company."

In this case from early in Stewart Hoag's career, the newly successful writer revisits his hometown to investigate the murder of a beloved librarian. In this 17th installment in Handler's Edgar Award-winning series, he gives the novel a nostalgic 1980s setting, explores the origin story of fan-favorite canine companion, Lulu, (depicting her here as an adorable four-month-old puppy), and pays homage to librarians and the difference they make in the lives of young children.

THE RUINS

By Steve Wick

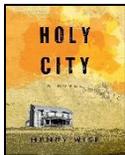

New York Times: "It's pure Shirer that Mr. Wick gets onto the pages of his book." (Praise for Wick's Pulitzer Prize-winning The Long Night)

Pulitzer-winning journalist Steve Wick's fiction debut portrays the grim horrors of Nazis in America that colliding with the manufacture of the suburban American dream by a man named Leavitt. It's 1954; the war, the American Bund, Charles Lindbergh and his baby are ghosts of the past. But Lindenhurst's new police chief, Paul Beirne, struggles with the demons from his time as a POW in Japan as does his Medical Examiner, Doc, a Holocaust survivor. Past and present collide when grisly murders in this sleepy town lead Paul and Doc to uncover the murder committed two decades before that established the roots of evil. Wick is the author of The Long Night, about journalist William L. Shirer's experience reporting from Germany on the rise of the Nazis and on WWII.

HOLLYWOOD VS. NAZIS

By Michael Benson

New York Journal of Books: "Benson tells this little-known chapter of American history well and with passion."

Robert Scott, The Girl in the Leaves: "Benson is a master of true crime."

Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels coveted the Hollywood propaganda machine; to control the messages coming out of Tinseltown was to rule the world. But taking control became an espionage war: after Hitler's scouts infiltrated Southern California, the Jewish movie moguls who had invented Hollywood (and were not about to let it go) funded attorney Leon Lawrence Lewis' team of mostly Jewish spies to disrupt the Nazis. In the end, Hollywood was rousing anti-Nazi during World War II, but the victory was not without casualties. For the spies who were caught, the punishment was death.
